

Hardy Agastache on the move

Agastache Summer™ Series have been protected by breeder rights in the USA and Europe.

Asexual propagation is strictly prohibited!!!

Agastache are incredibly useful for clouds of colour through the summer months. It is becoming more popular these days, not only because they are drought tolerant once they are established but also because they are dependable attractors for bees and butterflies. Their foliage is aromatic too.

The name Agastache originates from the Greek word aga, meaning "very much" and stachys, meaning "spikes" referring to the many flower spikes and is one of the easiest and most rewarding perennials in the garden.

This new series is far superior to the floppy, few flowering seed varieties of the past. The flower heads are so full and they do not need constant pinching like the old varieties. These are great varieties to plant en masse in the sunny landscape and are super in containers.

Breeder's goal for developing this new Agastache Series

- more weather resistant
- the longest lasting flowers in the industry
- colourful calyces mean longer lasting colour
- better habit for more garden and container uses
- broad colour palette
- rapid growth
- self branching promotes shapely, upright habit
- no pinching; not deadheading
- big, self-cleaning flower spikes
- low water usage
- low fertilizer needs
- vegetative propagation
- very hardy, up to minus 23 degrees Celcius

The following varieties are available:

Agastache Blue Boa is a new introduction with spikes of deep violet blue flowers held over deep green foliage with a distinct liquorice flavour. With its well-branched upright habit, it makes a splendid central feature in the perennial border. Agastache Blue Boa blooms from early summer right through, until the frost ends the display. Unlike any other Agastache. Height 80cm. PPAF PVR

Agastache Blue Fortune is a long-blooming selection for the middle to the back of the border, featuring wands of dusky, two-lipped, violet-blue flowers. Plants form a bush of liquorice-scented green leaves. Especially attractive in combination with Echinacea and Rudbeckia. Later in the season as the plant matures, it develops a light mint-scent to the flowers. Both the flowers and the leaves are edible and fun to sprinkle into salads.

Agastache Cotton Candy has massive numbers of densely clustered large pink flowers with darker pink sepals that bloom all summer and into fall. It has bright green, fragrant foliage. The sepals remain in colour and do not brown like other Agastache, giving this colour a much longer season of interest. Even without a single flower, there is still colour. Height: 65cm. Agastache Raspberry Summer is a stunning beauty that is domed with raspberry pink tubular flowers that float above attractive, bright green, fragrant, clump forming foliage from summer and into fall. The foliage smells distinctly like black liquorice when crushed. It is a tremendous long bloomer. Height: 80cm. PP20371 EU27475

Agastache Summer Glow. Vivid apricot yellow flowers contrasting beautifully with the dark lavender calyxes. No two days will be the same in your garden as all the flowers fade to provide endless colour combinations. Compact, evergreen vivid green foliage with the mint-scent will attract bees and butterflies. Blooms all Summer. A great blender. Height: 65cm. PP20980 EU29470

Agastache Summer Love is a sensational new perennial that you fall in love with as soon as you see its clustered flowers. From summer to fall, a profusion of yummy, reddish-purple flower clusters are displayed above the foliage on strong spikes. Blue-green fragrant foliage. Height: 90cm. PP20510 EU2747

Agastache Summer Sunset. Warm, sunset orange flowers on upright, but compact habit will remind you how it earned its name. This bright orange colour is hard to find in a long-blooming perennial and contrasts nicely with its deep green foliage. This will blend attractively with yellow and red flowering perennials and contrast with purple and blue flowering perennials. The anise mint scent is an added bonus. Height: 65cm. PPAF PVR
